

McGovern Aims Broadside At Kissinger

Candidate Calls
Trip to Saigon a
'Political Junket'

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. George McGovern wraps up a four-day campaign swing through the Midwest tonight after accusing Henry Kissinger of political junketeering and calling fellow Democrat John B. Connally a stooge.

McGovern's comments about Kissinger came in a sharply worded rebuke Thursday to White House suggestions that the South Dakotan could have imperilled the Paris peace negotiations by making his own inquiries of Hanoi's representatives about American prisoners of war.

The Democratic nominee told newsmen in nearby Racine, Wis., that the real threat to the peace talks is Kissinger's "highly publicized global junket on the eve of the Republican convention."

President Nixon, McGovern said, has "manipulated Mr. Kissinger and American public opinion to appear to be negotiating when actually he has been stalling to prop up Gen. Thieu's government in Saigon."

"That is what is interfering with quiet, serious, professional negotiating far more than anyone else could possibly do," he said.

Single Appearance

McGovern's schedule today called for only one public appearance, a midday tour of the Eaton Corp.'s drop forge plant. He was to spend the rest of his time filming television spots before returning to Washington late tonight.

On one such filming session Thursday, political film-making Charles Guggenheim took the candidate and a few newsmen to a machine-shop area of Tele-Video Wisconsin Motors for an hour-long exchange with laborers.

As McGovern's face dripped with sweat, one worker asked, "Why are so many Democrats supporting President Nixon?"

Said McGovern: "There's not so many. There's John Connally, the stooge of the Texas oil billionaires."

"He doesn't have a heart that beats for you ... not for the little guys," the senator said of Nixon's former Treasury secretary. "He's for the special interests."

Blacks on List

At another point, McGovern was asked what blacks he would consider for Cabinet or other high-level posts. "I think we have to have blacks," he said. Then he named Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., secretary of health and social Rep. Louis Stokes of Cleveland, services, said the $55 million is a figure claimed by Wisconsin District of Columbia, Georgia for services performed as long state legislator Julian Bond, ago as 1969, but as yet unpaid and Chicago civil-rights activist Jesse Jackson as among those on the list.

McGovern then was driven to the home of Bob and Judy Pacesny in West Allis, Wis., which the Guggenheim crew said was selected because it was in a lower-middle-class white neighborhood and had a backyard which offered "good visuals."

Moreover, they said, most of the neighborhood residents who talked with the nominee had been supporters of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie and could be expected to ask tough questions of the man who beat their favorites.

As McGovern sipped a cup of beer, one neighbor inquired about his proposal for crime control.

Narcotics Penalties

The senator said the principal target should be narcotics, adding that no penalty would be too severe for "rotten, corrupt gangsters that are pushing drugs."

The Nixon administration has done far too little on that score, he said, and "the money we've spent studying drugs you could stick in your eye."

Earlier Thursday, the senator met with a panel of West Racine Catholic church leaders and declared he was "exploring the means" through which parochial schools could receive "aid distributed either directly from Timbuktu and expect to or through the tax structure."

And the senator again called upon Nixon to appoint a "nationally respected special investigator" to look into the attempted bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in June, an incident which, he said is tied "directly to the President or the people trying to re-elect him."

Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern take a bite of kringles as he campaigns on the streets of Racine Thursday during a swing into Wisconsin.

Cutbacks Under Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin Congressmen were told Thursday their state could lose $55 million in federal aid if the Senate Finance Committee's revenue sharing bill receives final passage.

The U.S. Embassy statement said the talks "provided an opportunity for a general review of all aspects of the situation in South Vietnam as well as of the talks which have taken place in Paris with representatives of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese Communiqué said they had viewed the general situation of the Republic of Vietnam and questions related to the Paris peace talks.

Kissinger was smiling and appeared relaxed as usual when he was seen off at Tan Son Nhut Air Base by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Nguyen Phu Duc, Thieu's chief adviser on national security.

Newsmen were not allowed near the Saigon conferences and not even the usual photographs of the participants were permitted.

Three male crew members were on board the plane when it took off, the airline said. Fifty-two passengers were scheduled to have taken the flight.

United said the man was demanding a total of $2 million—$500,000 in $50 bills and the remainder in $20s. In addition to the cash, United said he also was demanding 15 pounds of gold in 1-pound bars.

He also was said to be demanding two Magnum pistols and three submachine guns, as well as a flashlight, 20 containers of pep pills, walkie-talkies, and a radio that United said would enable him to monitor any broadcasts.

It was not immediately known where the money and material was to be delivered, United said.

He added there was no indication where the hijacker wanted eventually to go.

Other Men Are Accepted by Husband

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed many letters in your column from the Other Woman. Why is it that you have never published a letter from the Other Man? Surely you know he exists. I'd like to address a few remarks to the gentleman.

Dear Sir: Do you think I am stupid that I don't know about you? Or the man my wife has selected to follow me? True, I have never confronted her with the evidence I have managed to be pleasant when we meet, but I am very much aware of your presence.

You will be relieved to know I am not angry, upset or especially dangerous. I accept you, as I have accepted the others. I have also stopped blaming myself. I realize now that my wife's insatiable sexual appetite is an illness and no reflection on my manhood. She's a good mother and except for her nymphomania she's a good wife. A sweeter and more generous person never lived. She's more considerate of my mother than my sisters. Everyone loves her. I needn't sign my initials. You know who I am. I just wanted you to know that I know who you are, too. Thanks for the forum, Ann Landers. — Her Husband

Dear Husband: Just when I think I've heard everything I get a letter like yours. As my grandmother used to say, "There's somebody for everybody." Meanwhile, on the Other Woman front . . .

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Too long, the cheating husband has been getting away with murder — telling lies at home and lying to his mis-stress as well. "My wife won't give me a divorce — please be patient, etc." This letter is signed herself. "Sorry You Saw Him First."

Dear Woman: I'm sorry you didn't see him first, too. When you wrote to me through Ann Landers' column you pleaded with me to let my husband go so you two could have a great life together. If I knew who you were, I'd gift-wrap the jerk and send him special delivery. Since I don't know who you are — and you know who I am — will you please insist that he bring you to see me? I want to repeat this offer in his presence.

Believe me, I'd welcome you with open arms. I'd make coffee. We could have an honest conversation, and insist that he choose between us.

And so help me, I hope he chooses you because I've — Had It

Dear Had It: Here's your letter and it's a lulu. No doubt I will be considered an unspeakable traitor by cheating husbands every-where, but I think you've hit on a neat solution. (The score is now Christians 10, Lions 0!)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Nine years ago I married a GI who was stationed at a nearby base. It was a terrible mistake. I was too young. We were divorced two years later when our baby was only five weeks old. Six years have passed and I am now married to a wonderful man. He is the only father Lisa has ever known.

Following the advice in your column, we told Lisa that this daddy adopted her. She keeps asking if she can see her real daddy one day. We don't know what to tell her. He has never sent the child so much as a greeting card since he left. We will be within 50 miles of his home this summer when we take a camping trip. Shall we contact him and arrange for Lisa to see her real daddy? — Waco Mother

Regional Plan Agency Forms

OSHKOSH — The new East-Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission is officially in existence.

The new agency will become functional next month when its governing body holds its first official meeting.

Paul Van Rooy, state Department of Local Affairs and Development representative, today informed leaders of the 10 counties in this region that their agency has enough municipal support to be set up under their preferred arrangement.

With municipal support, the county leaders have won their fight to set up a commission controlled by municipal and county officials, instead of governor appointees, as was the situation in the old East-Central (formerly Northeastern).

Local Control

The new east-Central is the first and only commission ever formed in Wisconsin with that local control, which is provided for in the statutes.

To get it, over half the municipalities representing over half the population in the 10-county region had to endorse the representation concept. The region needed 122 municipalities representing over 237,000 population — over half the municipalities and over half the population in the counties.

Over 134 municipalities representing over 300,000 population supported the concept.

Appleton was among those not endorsing the representation resolution.

Van Rooy's word on meeting the requirements today ends the lengthy fight to phase out the old East-Central and the former Fox Valley Council of Governments. Both professional staffs of the old agencies are now

Tax Hike Likely 'Bleak Picture For Kaukauna'

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KAUKAUNA — After a study of tentative assessment figures for 1973, Mayor Robert LaPlante and assessor Wayne Lennert in a joint statement noted the picture appears very bleak for the city in 1973.

"Although final assessment figures will not be known until the board of review has completed its study of the tax roll, it appears the city will lose about $2.9 million in total assessed value this year," Lennert said.

Such a loss would result in at least a $1 increase in the tax rate even if every other facet of the budget for next year remained unchanged from 1972. Heavy losses in industrial evaluation offset increases in other categories such as residential, mercantile and personal property, Lennert noted.

Decreases in industrial figures are derived at by using the state-recommended composite conversion factors, Lennert said.

Loss of Foundry

He also pointed out that the city suffered the loss of Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co. foundry which closed in December, 1971, and a disastrous fire at XYZ Corp. which reduced its operation by 75 per cent.

"This is the first year since 1939 that industry has had no purchase of new machinery or new taxable construction. This is caused mainly by all the expensive pollution abatement programs undertaken and will

Lightning Hits Sheriff's Tower At Black Creek

Thunderstorms Due Again Tonight in Fox Valley Area

Thunderstorm activity early this morning may have rattled the bones of a good number of Fox Cities residents.

And, it's likely that more storms will appear late this afternoon and tonight, according to the U.S. Weather bureau.

The thunderstorms which originated in the northwest part of the state Thursday afternoon traveled easterly across the state and hit the Fox Cities about 2 a.m., according to the weather bureau. It dropped only .07 inch of rain, but did bring some lightning damage.

The Outagamie County Sheriff's Department radio tower south of Black Creek apparently was struck by lightning about 3:20 a.m. causing the department to go on its alternate Appleton police frequency.

But crews were working on it today, the sheriff's department reported, and the 150-foot tower is expected to be back in operation by tonight.

Electrical outages also were reported in the Dale area, and north of Readfield and on the southwest side of Neenah, where lightning struck a power line.

In most cases, power was restored in less than two hours, the company reported.

While thunderstorms still are in the forecast, the weather bureau said that most of the state can expect continued sultry temperatures, probably in the mid-90s today and dropping only to the low 70s tonight.

Thursday's high in Appleton was 68, the low 71. High for the state was 97 at Richland Center.

The extended outlook for the state is for the same kind of steamy summer weather with chances of scattered thunderstorms through Tuesday.

Judges Hear Views Family Court Boosted

BY ROBERT LAUN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County judges and Circuit Court Judge Gordon Myse are considering two ways of redistributing the types of cases handled in the three County Court branches.

The first alternative to the present workload — creating a true family court in Branch 3 — was strongly supported by interested organizations invited to a Thursday afternoon meeting with the judges.

The second alternative would split divorce and civil cases between Judge Urban P. Van Susteren in Branch 1 and Judge R. Thomas Cane in Branch 3. Van Susteren now has all the divorces, and Cane, all the civil cases.

Judge Nick F. Schaefer of Branch 2 said the second plan would make Cane's court "a court of quasi-family court" and that the change would represent "some progress over the present system."

3 Different Courts

Under the current workload, family cases are divided among the three branches. From one family, it would be possible now for the mother to be in one court seeking a divorce, the father in criminal court facing a nonsupport charge and a child in juvenile court.

Cynthia Johnson told the judges that a five-month study had convinced the Appleton League of Women Voters that "the concept of a family court should be established." She said her organization favored a true family court because one judge would be able to specialize and because court records on one family could be centralized.

Martin Downs, a member of the year-old Advisory Committee on Social Services, said a family court would aid the county Department of Social Services in helping solve multifaceted problems within families. He also claimed that a central court would be able to keep closer tabs on nonsupport cases and that the county's spending for Aid to Families with Dependent Children would correspondingly decrease.

Jane Kaplan, representing the Social Workers Action Group, complained that the judges' second alternative was "not so different from what we have now." She advocated the family court.

Assign Social Workers

Elaine Lastofka, a member of Concerned Outagamie Mothers, suggested that a social worker be assigned to the family court to investigate cases so that the judge "doesn't have to depend on what he hears in court."

The judges also are considering keeping the present system: Probate and divorces in Branch 1; criminal and traffic in Branch 2; and small claims, civil matters and juvenile actions in Branch 3.

Myse said Schaefer now has "patently the heaviest workload" of the three judges. He said felony criminal trials and civil trials could be shifted to the Circuit Court.

Under state law, judges in courts where there are two or more branches are free to decide the distribution of work

Hyphen Ruling Due by Dec. 15

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) hearing on a petition to separate the Oshkosh and Appleton air markets — leaving Air Wisconsin as the lone recognized air carrier serving Appleton — was closed Thursday afternoon at the end of its eighth day.

The CAB examiner's decision on the petition of the five-year-old case will come by Dec. 15.

That was the estimate Thursday afternoon by the examiner, Joseph Fitzmaurice, after local counsel for the parties involved agreed on deadlines for their filing written briefs with Fitzmaurice.

Businessmen Testify

The case actually involves three separate petitions — by Appleton-Outagamie County, Sheboygan and Wisconsin Rapids-Marshfield. All want to be removed officially from North Central Airlines' certificated air route, because they aren't served directly by North Central and have commuter airlines serving them in their own airports.

In Appleton's case, North Central is recognized by the CAB as serving Appleton through the Oshkosh airport.

Testimony during the eight full days of hearings, alleged that particularly Fox Cities businessmen have suffered by the North Central designation because their freight as well as their outgoing employees and customers or suppliers have mistakenly flown North Central, thinking it would take them directly to Appleton.

North Central, Oshkosh-Wisconsin County and representatives of Manitowish and Green Bay-Brown County have opposed the dehyphenation for various reasons but primarily because they believe that it will have a detrimental effect on North Central and the communities served.

The CAB has authorized the first city in each designation, meaning passengers must use other transportation if they want to go elsewhere.

If the CAB rules in favor of Appleton and the other petitioners by removing the hyphen and the "Appleton" in the Oshkosh-Appleton route certification, and the other cities in the other two, North Central will not be authorized to serve those cities removed.

Change Publications

Presumably, listings in the Official Airline Guide and other publications telling passengers on freight or reservations clerks that North Central serves Appleton also will be removed. However, some of those publications are produced by a private corporation which doesn't have to alter the listing.

The examiner's decision is final, unless the losing parties appeal it to the CAB in Washington, D. C. And the CAB decision also could be appealed to the courts.

The first federal-level position on the issue will come from Alexander Argerakis, senior trial attorney for the CAB operating rights bureau. Argerakis, who was one of the attorneys participating in the hearing, will submit a statement of position Sept. 22 to the examiner as his recommendation on the case.

The bureau's main concern is that air travel in general be maintained for the most convenience for the public.

Testimony ended Thursday afternoon with the cross-examination of Preston Wilbourne, vice president and general manager of Air Wisconsin.

Wilbourne said the freight problem was the worst —

Appleton's Budget Work Starts Early

Appleton's new finance director hopes to put city department heads to work on their 1973 budget requests next week and is aiming for adoption of a final budget and tax rate by the City Council before the end of November.

Reynold Running began his portion of the budget preparation process almost immediately after taking his post July 31.

Mayor James Sutherland Thursday approved Running's budget timetable.

In line with pledges both have made to make the budget-setting process an open one to the public, Running planned to meet this morning with representatives of the Appleton Taxpayers' Association to discuss suggestions they have offered in the past and to seek their views on plans for Sutherland's first executive budget.

Running said he hopes the executive budget — the mayor's recommendations based on his evaluation of department requests — can be ready for submission to the City Council by mid-October.

That would permit the committee's finance committee to con-

3 Bridge Contracts Awarded by Spring

OSHKOSH — Within a week, state engineers are expected to agree with a Winnebago County request that three of four contracts for the Little Lake Butte Des Morts Bridge be let simultaneously next spring.

The original plan had been to let the construction in three phases, but the county asked that it be consolidated into two bids so firm cost figures could be taken into the County Board.

It's been about six weeks since the state released new construction estimates which have added about $1.4 million to the bridge costs.

Of the extra money, the state would pay a third ($467,000) and the county two-thirds ($934,000). However, the figures at present are only tentative and the county wants firm bid costs before it asks the County Board to commit any more money.

Today, Clem Mertens, chief design engineer at the District 3 office in Green Bay, said engineers in Madison had been reluctant to lump the substructure and structural steel contracts into a single bid letting. "But I think we've convinced them we need it," Mertens said.

Meanwhile, county Counsel Gerald Engeldinger plans to contact the attorney general's office for an interpretation of how the extra bridge costs should be paid.

Engeldinger said today that "since the local share is $1.2 million and more than the one-half of one per cent required by the statute, I think the county should have it cleared up by the attorney general."

The main concern at this point is that the law governing bridge financing says that anything beyond the one-half of one per cent of equalized value be picked up by the state.

The Town of Menasha, which is considered the local municipality, has committed $500,000, and the City of Menasha following a referendum has pledged another $700,000 toward the construction.

Winnebago County, besides a $1 million right-of-way fund, also has set aside more than $2 million, Mertens, pointing out that there would be an apparent agreement on the bid consolidation, added.

The state is going to want some kind of commitment from the county on the extra money.

The Lundstrom "Crusade for Christ" ran into some minor difficulties Thursday, but took only a few moments to correct. The 1931 Model A Ford, which is letting the people in the area know that the rally is in session, got a flat tire and was changed by, from left, the Rev. Hamelink, Bob Coon and Joe Douville. The crusade is going on at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Sunday, with an extra session at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, at Appleton High School-East. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New Rules May Affect Institutions

WINNEBAGO — County institutions officials today planned to draft a letter asking for a joint meeting next month with authorities of the state Department of Health and Social Services and three of its main divisions for clarification of how a new set of standards could affect the complex here.

The new standards could have a significant financial impact, Donald Zboray, superintendent of county institutions, said today.

Zboray said the letter would be sent to Wilbur Schmidt, secretary of the state Department of Health and Social Services in Madison, asking for a meeting there on Sept. 14 or 15.

The department's three divisions — which are the keepers of the standards — will also be asked for high level representatives at the session, Zboray noted. The three are the department's Division of Mental Hygiene, Family Services and the Division of Health.

Supv. Ray Gischia, Neenah, chairman of the institution's panel, told the full County Board Tuesday night that a meeting was in the offing. Gischia suggested during his address to the board that County Board Chairman Orrin King, and members of his panel and the finance committee also attend.

A recent Division of Mental Hygiene recommendation would apparently require institutions such as those here to break into three distinct facilities: One for the mentally ill, another for patients in need of skilled nursing care and the third for patients requiring social care.

According to Gischia, the recommendations would affect the number of beds available, facilities for patients considered long term and persons who receive care under the medical assistance program.

"We want interpretations on how they (the recommendations) could apply to counties," said Zboray.

Referring to the directives as "iffy" situations, Zboray added, "We want to get from them the most reliable and firm recommendations as we can."

Advocap Groundwork Ready For County Operation

OSHKOSH — Surviving its first year with a frugal-minded county board, Advocap and its programmers have begun the time consuming task of merging Fond du Lac County operations with those of Winnebago County.

Since July were characterized by tremendous amounts of paperwork and administrative details, according to the progress report for July.

At the end of the month, the county board held its annual meeting in Fond du Lac, and 50 persons from Winnebago County were seated on the board for the first time.

They are Barbara LePack and Ruth Korn, representing the county; John Wiley, Neenah, and Barbara Fox, Fond du Lac, representing the community; and the county government, which is the county of Menasha, and the Fisher, Oshkosh.

One of the biggest problems experienced by CAP, was getting set up. In May, the county board acted to designate the agency as the official Countywide Action Program (CAP) in the county. But the board denied a request to appropriate a $3,000 matching fund.

The next two months were spent in soliciting funds, with grants finally coming through from the Department of Local Affairs and Development, Madison.

A visible manifestation of CAP's presence was distributed Tuesday night to the county board, in the form of a hand-drawn 31-page annual report of the agency in addition, copies of the agency's newsletter, "The Advocate," have been widely circulated on a regular basis throughout the county.

"The Advocate" is an informative letter dealing with topics of interest to the poor, senior citizens and disadvantaged, with whom the agency deals. A typical issue might report on upcoming meetings of special interest, or legislation affecting areas of concern to the special interest groups.

Some of the accomplishments of CAP to date, are:

- Formation of the Winnebago County Advisory Committee, which met for the first time July 24 to discuss its role, goals and ways to achieve them.
- The random sampling of handicapped persons in the county by the handicapped advisory committee, which plans to sponsor a rock music concert to raise money for the handicapped.
- Development of a programmatic direction, with senior citizens on the committee of homebased services, a home maintenance program, and a program of repair and maintenance.
- Completion of an inventory of community resources, and the printing, in progress, of a resource directory. A printer agreed to do the printing at no cost, the report says.
- Recruitment and screening of candidates for the foster grandparent program at the Winnebago State Hospital.
- Progress has also been logged in other areas, including the attendance of a college course dealing with human development by "outreach" workers who never went to college, and two AIDS mothers who went to a regional meeting of welfare agencies and nonprofits with staff members. The women have shown interest in becoming more involved with organizational affairs, according to the progress report.
- More in-service training programs for the CAP staff members is planned, directors said, and continuation of cooperative arrangements the agency has with various other agencies.

Rolland Kamp, who has been the County Board floor leader in the bridge fight, has said, "When I go to the County Board to ask for more money, I want it to be the last time."

That's why Kamp, and Supv. Ted Neely, County Board Finance Committee chairman, have asked that the bids be consolidated to ensure that the next request will be the final based on first bids.

Although the state has offered to pay a third share, the Little Lake span is being financed, says that anything over the required local share will be paid by the state.

But the state, faced with a shortage of construction funds, has been restricting its contribution to a firm one-third. It's this point that Engeldinger has been instructed to get cleared up through the attorney general.

He predicted today that he would have an answer very soon.

With the state agreement on consolidation, the two substructure bids, plus the structural steel should be under contract by next spring. These three items are estimated at $4.7 million. The final contract, for the concrete $1.9 million deck, will be bid in early 1974, with final completion set for 1975.

Economic Development

Chamber Pushes Committee

NEENAH — An economic development committee — made up of equal representation from the cities and towns of Neenah-Menasha and the local Chamber of Commerce, and headed by a full-time staff director — has been endorsed by the Chamber's board of directors.

The Chamber hopes to see the committee begin operation in January. It hopes a full-time director can be hired then.

News of the ambitious project was brought by Chamber executive director A. John Wiley to the Rotary luncheon here Thursday. The project was approved by the Chamber's board of directors on Monday.

Wiley said the committee? To furnish "good, sound long-range planning" for the area's future growth with a committee made up of business and community leaders.

The economic development committee is the latest in a series of recent moves by the local chamber that indicate its increased involvement in local political and economic affairs.

Wiley and Chamber executive assistant Paul Green told Rotarians about some of the other efforts as well: formation of a state political action committee under the leadership of the Neenah-Menasha and Appleton chambers, the push for a feasibility study of Twin Cities consolidating and withdrawal from the state Chamber of Commerce in a move designed as a protest against that body's ineffectiveness as a state lobbying force for business interests.

Wiley didn't discuss proposed funding arrangements for the new program, but he did say it would require a "substantial budget." Each community and the Chamber would appoint two members each, for two-year terms, and one member will be appointed at-large. That makes an 11-man committee.

The two primary goals are:

- To give local government the information it needs to provide for "good, sound long-range planning" for industrial and economic growth.
- Provide a vehicle for government to cooperate with industry in an effort to make community development a smoother process.

The methods for realizing these goals, according to the chamber proposal, would be to:

- Hire a full-time, paid staff director by January 1.
- Develop a better current data file, so both the community and the potential economic developers know what's there and what's possible.
- Compile complete inventories of existing development sites and buildings.
- Promote new industrial developments.
- Work with state industrial, utility, railroad and private consultants to coordinate local data and promote a better community image.
- Provide for "public education" so the community understands the importance of economic development in the community.

- Get technical information to industry and business on ways they can get help on employee training, financial aid or special goods and services.
- Coordinate and plan economic growth in area.
- Coordinate federal and state assistance programs between communities, county and regional planning commission.

Wiley noted that there were about 260 industrial development agencies in the state, but none in Neenah-Menasha. It is time that one is formed, he said.

"I think we have to look at expanding the base" of the communities, Wiley told the Rotary gathering Thursday, to both "protect what we have" in the community now and to "maintain a dynamic economic period" of continued growth.

Wiley said that a prime example of the present lack of adequate planning for industrial development can be seen in Menasha's industrial park, which was purchased by the city although it had neither rail or roadway access. Planning that will prevent this in the future is needed in both cities, he said.

Wiley emphasized that the purpose of the program was not to make a large, industrial metropolis out of Neenah-Menasha. A Rotarian said the program sounded "good and very understandable," but wondered "what is the optimum level we would aspire to?" Another Los Angeles?

No, said Wiley. The purpose is simply to maintain growth and keep the business and industry already here strong by furnishing assistance for their own development and expansion.

Senior Citizen Lunch Program

KAUKAUNA — Beginning with the opening of St. Anthony's School on Aug. 22, senior citizens of the community will be able to participate in the hot lunch program at the school, according to the Rev. Richard Verhus.

The program will be an offshoot of the popular hot lunch program with special diet meals available. Meals will be available on other days at 11:45 a.m. A room will be available for card playing or visiting until 1:30 p.m.

All retired elderly may participate in the program, according to the pastor. Persons will be required to furnish their own transportation. Mail or phone reservations will be taken at the school on Fridays of the week prior to when adults plan to participate. Cost of meals will be 50 cents.

Kaukauna Meeting to Focus on Land Sale

KAUKAUNA — A meeting of the finance and personnel committee has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday for the discussion of the sale of property to Gordon Jacobson, who plans to build a restaurant.

The city property is just off Main Street and formerly was owned by the railroad.

Water Filled Glass
Creates Magnifier

BY CAPPY DICK
A glass of water can be used as a customizing magnifier by following today's easy fun-project directions.
Place a glass filled with water on top of several books, first making sure the outside of the glass is dry so

The reason for placing the glass on top of the books, by the way, is to raise the glass more to your eye level than it would be if it stood only upon the table top. As it is, you will probably have to bend down a little to see directly through the water.
Hold a variety of things behind the glass and look at them—things such as a pencil, a clover leaf, a paper clip, and so on.

"THERE'S A PLACE THAT LOOKS LIKE IT HASN'T BEEN SLEPT IN LATELY!"

We think you're paying too much for your gasoline.

So we've developed a whole new idea about gasoline.

We sell one grade. Premium. DX Plus.
And we make it to sell for less.*

Several cents a gallon less than before.
In fact, it's made to sell for less than other premium gasolines.

We still put in all the premium additives.
Detergent. Anti-Knock. Anti-Rust.
Still give you first-class service.

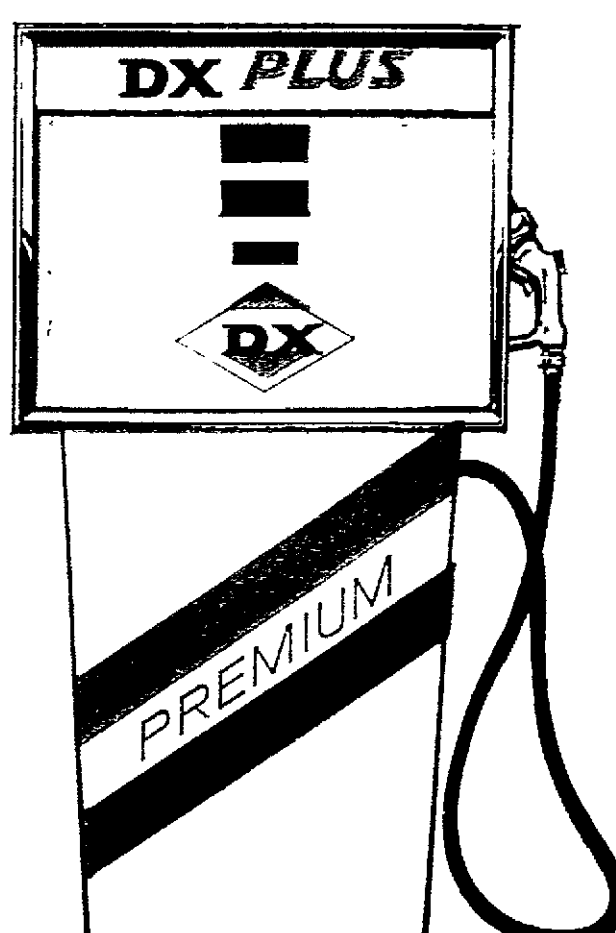

But because we sell only one grade,
you can get a premium gasoline for less.

And because DX Plus is a premium gasoline blended to satisfy today's cars, you don't have to pay for octane you don't need.

Try one tankful. You'll see.

New DX Plus. The premium gasoline that can cost you less.

Eagles' Reaves Faces Redskins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — In addition to Philadelphia at Washington, Minnesota plays at Reaves of the Philadelphia Buffalo in another NFL exhibition tonight. Eagles faces an acid test against the Washington Redskins tonight as another week-end of exhibition pro football gets under way.

Reaves impressed in his first start last weekend against the New England Patriots. He played his first game for his team last week and led the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice from Vikings to a 24-14 triumph over the University of Florida, San Diego.

Reaves led Philadelphia to a 29-20 victory. He completed eight of 11 passes for 89 yards, two of them for touchdowns.

He will be facing a more experienced team in the unbeaten Redskins. Washington routed the Denver Broncos 41-0 last week paced by veteran signal callers Bill Kilmer and Sonny Jurgensen.

Westhaven Meet Set Aug. 26-27

OSHKOSH — The third annual Westhaven Open golf tournament is scheduled for Aug. 26-27 at the Westhaven Golf Course.

Pete Benson defends his title. In the 56-hole medal play tournament, Benson battles Detroit at Ann Arbor and the Chicago Bears go against New England at Foxboro, Mass. The Monday dinner does not include unbeaten Kansas City green fees. Entry deadline is in the Chiefs' new Arrowhead Stadium.

Orioles Send Hendricks To Cubs for Davis

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles sent catcher Elie Hendricks to the Chicago Cubs today and acquired outfielder-first baseman Tommy Davis in a waiver deal.

Davis, a two-time National League batting champion, was hitting .269 with the Cubs. He had seven hits in 26 times at bat, driving in six runs.

The 33-year-old, who has been playing mostly first base recently, was signed by Chicago as a free agent after being released earlier this season by the Oakland Athletics.

Baltimore will be the eighth major team for Davis, who entered the season with a .296 lifetime average.

Hendricks, now in his fifth season with the Orioles, was batting only .155 with four RBI on 84 times at bat, after being troubled early in 1972 with a sore shoulder and arm.

Skorich Still Optimistic

Browns Must Overcome Problems

By JOHN R. SKINNER

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nick Skorich talks about his Cleveland Browns making a run at the Super Bowl, but on paper it appears the team is on the brink of disaster.

For Skorich to succeed, he'll have to have young players solve major problems at quarterback, on the lines, in line-backing and the secondary.

Skorich has avoided the quarterback problem the past two years because Bill Nelson and his crippling knees have survived. Even if Nelson can complete another campaign, it is doubtful he can lead the team to a repeat title in the Central Division of the American Football Conference (AFC).

Nelson's unquestionable game knowledge is equalized by the facts he cannot run more than a few feet and cannot throw long passes consistently.

Pressure on Nelson was increased last year by failure of the offensive line to block well enough to establish a good running game, despite the presence of still-brilliant halfback Leroy Kelly and fullback Bo Scott.

Skorich wants Mike Phipps, the former Purdue University star, to take over as field general, but Phipps failed to win the job last year and may not prove ready this season.

Phipps could change the entire offensive image if he could deliver the long passes to such receivers as Fair Hooker and Frank Pitts and could run from rushing defenders. He has good pass-catching tight ends in Milt Morin and Chip Glass.

Even if Phipps can do the job, that leaves the problem of line blocking, which Skorich blamed last year on new formations and two new tackles.

Are Improved Rookie Doug Dieken started at one tackle and second-year man Rob McKay at the other last season. Both figure to be improved; but if they are injured, the present backup man is inexperienced rookie Chris Morris.

The offensive line is strongest at center where veterans Jim Copeland and Fred Hoaglin return. John Demarie is an experienced guard, and Bubba Pena, a highly touted draft choice of a year ago, is expected to beat out veteran Gene Hickerson for the other guard spot.

If the offense sputters, the Browns will rely on either veteran Don Cockroft or rookie George Hunt from Tennessee for kicking.

The Browns would like to replace Cockroft, who is not accurate on long field goals and ranked only ninth in the AFC in punting last year with a 39.7 average.

Defensive Woes The defensive problems are just as severe, beginning with a line last year which was easily punctured by opposing runners.

Defensive end Joe Jones was especially vulnerable to the run rookie Lester Sims are in re-on the outside. Veterans are last year and was benched—but serve.

McGovern Aims Broadside At Kissinger

Candidate Calls
Trip to Saigon a
'Political Junket'

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. George McGovern wraps up a four-day campaign swing through the Midwest tonight after accusing Henry Kissinger of political junketeering and calling fellow Democrat John B. Connally a stooge.

McGovern's comments about Kissinger came in a sharply worded rebuke Thursday to White House suggestions that the South Dakota could have imperiled the Paris peace negotiations by making his own inquiries of Hanoi's representatives about American prisoners of war.

The Democratic nominee told newsmen in nearby Racine, Wis., that the real threat to the peace talks is Kissinger's "highly publicized global junket on the eve of the Republican convention."

President Nixon, McGovern said, has "manipulated Mr. Kissinger and American public opinion to appear to be negotiating when actually he has been stalling to prop up Gen. Thieu's government in Saigon."

"That is what is interfering with quiet, serious, professional negotiating far more than anyone else could possibly do," he said.

Single Appearance

McGovern's schedule today called for only one public appearance, a midday tour of the Eaton Corp.'s drop forge plant. He was to spend the rest of his time filming television spots before returning to Washington late tonight.

On one such filming session Thursday, political film-maker Charles Guggenheim took the candidate and a few newsmen to a machine-shop area of Tele-Dyne Wisconsin Motors for an hour-long exchange with laborers.

As McGovern's face dripped with sweat, one worker asked, "Why are so many Democrats supporting President Nixon?"

Said McGovern: "There's not so many. There's John Connally, the stooge of the Texas oil billionaires."

"He doesn't have a heart that beats for you ... not for the little guys," the senator said of Nixon's former Treasury secretary. "He's for the special interests."

Blacks on List

At another point, McGovern was asked what blacks he would consider for Cabinet or other high-level posts. "I think we have to have blacks," he said. Then he named Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., Rep. Louis Stokes of Cleveland, Rep. Walter Fauntroy of the District of Columbia, Georgia state legislator Julian Bond, and Chicago civil-rights activist Jesse Jackson as among those on the list.

McGovern then was driven to the home of Bob and Judy Paczesny in West Allis, Wis., which the Guggenheim crew said was selected because it was in a lower-middle-class white neighborhood and had a backyard which offered "good visuals."

Moreover, they said, most of the neighborhood residents who talked with the nominee had been supporters of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie and could be expected to ask tough questions of the man who beat their favorites.

As McGovern sipped a cup of beer, one neighbor inquired about his proposal for crime control.

Narcotics Penalties

The senator said the principal target should be narcotics, adding that no penalty would be too severe for "proton, corrupt, rangers that are pushing drugs."

The Nixon administration has done far too little on that score, he said, and "the money we've spent studying drugs you could stick in your eye."

Earlier Thursday, the senator met with a panel of West Racine Catholic church leaders and declared he was "exploring the means" through which parochial schools could receive "aid distributed either directly or through the tax structure."

And the senator again called upon Nixon to appoint a "nationally respected special investigator" to look into the attempted bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in June, an incident which he said is tied "directly to the President or the people trying to re-elect him."

Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern takes a bite of kringles as he campaigns on the streets of Racine Thursday during a swing into Wisconsin.

Kissinger in Tokyo, Talks Remain Secret

TOKYO (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Tokyo Thursday after two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon. There was no hint of what they had told each other.

The presidential adviser will discuss with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and Foreign Minister Ohira on Saturday the U.S.-Japanese summit meeting in Honolulu at the end of the month. Then he will fly home to report to President Nixon of Camp David.

Brief statements issued by the U.S. Embassy in Saigon and by Thieu's office said the nearly six hours of talks had dealt with the general situation in Vietnam and peace negotiations in Paris.

If there were any significant disagreements between Kissinger and the South Vietnamese, they were not revealed by the statements, even though they were issued separately. But the total time consumed by the secretary-of-state talks heightened speculation that new peace proposals had been carefully explored during the two days of meetings.

The U.S. Embassy statement said the talks "provided an opportunity for a general review of all aspects of the situation in South Vietnam as well as of the talks which have taken place in Paris with representatives of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese Communiqué said they had viewed the general situation of the Republic of Vietnam and questions related to the Paris peace talks.

Kissinger was smiling and appeared relaxed as usual when he was seen off at Tan Son Nhut Air Base by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Nguyen Phu Duc, Thieu's chief adviser on national security.

Newsmen were not allowed near the Saigon conferences and not even the usual photographs of the participants were taken.

Such claims are made under the Social Services program, criticized in recent months by President Nixon and several Congressmen. Under the program, the federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of various state and local projects.

The finance panel has amended the revenue sharing proposal to replace the 75 per cent pickup with a $1 billion supplemental revenue sharing plan. However, it left unclear what is to be done about pending claims, such as Wisconsin's.

"The question of whether we would lose the $55 million is a matter of speculation," Schmidt said. "The bill needs more pointed language."

Despite possible denial of the bill, Schmidt said, "The bill needs more pointed language."

Schreiber Invisible in McGovern's Shadow

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber had a rare opportunity to appear in public and he nearly ignored it.

Thursday, when he accompanied Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern on a Wisconsin campaign swing, Schreiber said as McGovern spent more than an hour shaking hands, signing autographs and talking with those he hopes will be among his future constituents.

"I'm especially pleased with the true, genuine affection of this crowd for McGovern," he said.

Da Nang Battered In Heavy Assault

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces rained scores of rockets on Da Nang and Chu Lai today, the Thai Binh army barracks, which a spokesman said was three-quarters of a mile south-east of the town, according to U.S. maps.

The U.S. Navy said jets from the carrier Oriskany attacked Da Nang and Chu Lai today, which a spokesman said was three-quarters of a mile south-east of the town, according to U.S. maps.

It was the worst rocket attack this year on Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, spokesman said.

One American airman was killed and 21 American airmen and Army personnel were wounded at the Da Nang Air Base.

Field reports said 16 100-pound rockets killed 27 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 24 when they landed in a densely populated village just outside the base.

Thirty-three other rockets hit the base before dawn in two barrages about three hours apart. The only South Vietnamese military casualty was a wounded airman.

Buildings Damaged

Nine buildings used by the Americans also were damaged lightly, the U.S. Command said.

The last remaining U.S. combat infantry battalion in Vietnam had been patrolling the Da Nang area to keep rocket attacks away from the base and the city. But it was deactivated a week ago, ending the U.S. ground combat role in Vietnam.

At Chu Lai, 50 miles south of Da Nang, two dozen rockets landed in a South Vietnamese military installation and a residential area, the Saigon command said. It reported one Vietnamese civilian and one serviceman killed and 13 civilians and five servicemen wounded.

The U.S. Command also announced that an American adviser was killed Thursday night in a North Vietnamese artillery attack on South Vietnamese forces 19 miles south of Quang Tri City, on the northern border.

Western Hire

The Saigon command reported that 800 South Vietnamese soldiers, assigned three North Vietnamese tanks, south of Quang Tri City, were killed and 20 of their weapons captured in a fight on the western flank of Da Nang. South Vietnamese losses were four men killed and 10 wounded, the command said.

Carrying Money

When apprehended, Berg was unarmed and carrying the green nylon bag of Menasha bags containing the money given him by the police station at 4:33.

Police gave the following account of the robbery:

Berg, described as just under six feet tall, of medium build, dark hair, wearing a reddish-brown jacket, entered the bank at about 4:30.

He approached the window of a Skarwinski, who has worked at the bank for about two years and had a wife and two children. She was in the bank at the time he was in there.

According to Menasha Police Chief Lester Clark, Berg was arrested by Investigator Robert Fritz with the aid of Officer Charles Evans in the rear parking lot of Gibson Motors, 121 Main St., about five minutes after the alarm was activated at the police station at 4:33.

Clark said Evans was in a patrol car and Fritz just leaving the police station for home when the alarm was sounded.

Clark added that the FBI's investigation takes precedence over the local investigation, since Berg is charged with a federal crime. The chief was uncertain as to whether or not the robbery would be forthcoming in Winnebago County Court.

Not Involved

Winnebago County Dist. Atty. William Carver said today it is unlikely that his office would become involved in the case.

"It is possible for both the federal and state officials to be involved in such a matter, but the man would be charged with different crimes, even if he committed one act," said Carver.

Moreover, it is highly unusual for both the federal and state to take action on the same matter," Carver added. He said his office would only become involved if the federal officials had difficulty in arraigning the defendant.

500 Agents to Guard Nixon Family, Agnew

By J. T. WOLKSTORFER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A small army of nearly 500 U.S. Secret Service agents will be on duty when the Democratic National Convention opens Monday in Miami Beach.

The agents will guard the Nixon family, including the president, his wife, and their children. They will also guard Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and his family. The agents will be on duty from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

Among the precautions being taken are what Hawthorne calls alternate security patterns.

"As an example," he said, "during the Democratic National Convention, Sen. (George) McGovern's motorcade was diverted because we got a man with a gun report. What we did was routine: we took an alternate route, then investigated the incident."

"You can't resolve a situation like that as fast as you can avoid it. As it turned out, the man was perfectly legitimate and no charges were filed."

Your Money's Worth

Buying Clubs Help Cut Rising Food Expenses

BY SYLVIA PORTER

One of the money-saving hints the food store chains in your neighborhood will not give you in the "Shop Harder" drive now being launched is to "buy wholesale." You can't blame them: you wouldn't expect the stores to suggest you by-pass them completely.

But you can achieve savings ranging from 20 per cent up if you can use any food cooperabers must be willing to do as much of your shopping as possible through your club.

The buying is usually done by two or more buyers going once a week to the wholesale markets. (You'll find them listed in the Yellow Pages.) Each week, one buyer who has gone the week before accompanies a novice to lend his or her previous experience. For instance: A and B; then B and C; then C and D. The general shopping list for produce is: two types of fruit, one cooking vegetable, salad vegetables, potatoes and onions. Meat is often ordered in advance from a distributor or a reliable local butcher who will give discounts.

Do Not Compete

After the food is purchased, it is brought to a prearranged point for distribution, often a member's house or apartment. The food is sold at a price to cover the purchase price plus incidentals, such as gasoline.

Buying clubs do not compete with each other — and, in fact, small clubs may find it beneficial to cooperate in exchanging names of stores, recipes, new ideas. Several buying clubs may cooperate on large-scale purchases for which an individual club would not receive a discount.

A key problem of a club may be losses resulting from spoilage of unsold goods. This leftover food might be sold to outsiders via a "leftover list" of names of people who may be called after members have shopped.

Babysitting System

Another problem might arise when members feel small children prevent them from participating. An answer here would be a babysitting system on buying days.

Still another is payment for the food on time. Members who regularly fail to pay on time — not later than the day before food. Each member must be willing to do his or her share of the work load — in order to avoid having to hire the outside help which raises costs and defeats the whole objective of small group buying.

You must openly discuss any disagreements to solve whatever problems your club may have.

An excellent source of information on buying clubs, co-ops and shopping for wholesale foods is: The Co-operative League of the U.S.A., 59 E. Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill. 60605. Copyright 1972.

tives, food warehouses and other wholesale outlets operating in your area. Whether you can or should go this route will depend on how much food your family consumes, how much time you have for shopping, etc.

For at these outlets, you'll buy staples such as rice, sugar, flour in 25 or 50 pound bags; you'll bag your own purchases; you'll pick the produce you want straight out of packing cases.

Costs Down 40 Per Cent

Or you can join with other families to start your own food buying club — and slash as much as 40 per cent from your food budgets while actually improving the quality of your food.

But HOW do you start a food buying club?

Here are key tips from New York City's Dept. of Consumer Affairs:

A buying club consist of as few as 10-12 families. Their small size eliminates the need for the usual supermarket overhead — trucks, distribution centers, hired helpers.

Members of the club must be compatible — both in your personalities and your tastes in food. Each member must be willing to do his or her share of the work load — in order to avoid having to hire the outside help which raises costs and defeats the whole objective of small group buying.

All Must Work

There must be several members prepared to do each job: driving, simple bookkeeping, distributing, buying. This system will permit you to rotate the tasks fairly.

All of you who are mem-

Others Take 'Pill' for Acne; Should She, Too?

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 16, asked if I would suggest you send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins."

She said half the girls at high school take them for their complexion. Is there such a thing as those pills helping complexion? Did you ever hear of such a thing? Please answer so I can prove it to her. — Mrs. L. K.

Yes, there is such a thing. Estrogen, one of the hormones in birth control pills, is sometimes used for acne in girls.

But not all girls have acne and not all those with acne need or ought to have hormones.

I'd like a better description of your daughter's complexion problem — if she has a problem. If it is an occasional pimple that blossoms with her menstrual period, I doubt that she needs any hormone treatment. And if her complexion problem involves being pale and sallow, estrogen won't help anyway.

It is hard for me to conceive that half the girls in any high school have an acne problem serious enough to warrant use of the pill. And mild cases of acne can be handled pretty well with simpler measures.

To settle the matter, why don't you and your daughter see your family doctor and let him decide whether her complexion problem needs treatment? Discuss the pill with him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could a 5-year-old child's overweight problem be due partly to fluid retention caused by too much salt? — D. L.

I would very much doubt it — unless, of course, there is some more serious underlying cause such as, for example, kidney disease.

Instead of looking for some simple excuse like too much salt, I'd take the child to a pediatrician for a thorough examination. If no disease is present, then I'd start a common-sense diet program to get him back to normal weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and have not had my period in seven months. (I am not pregnant.) Is it possible that I could have cancer? — P. L.

Why the concern about cancer? First, it is very unlikely at your age; second, it usually causes bleeding. I would suspect either some glandular dysfunction (particularly low thyroid) or some emotional complication.

Airlines to Get CAB Ruling On Hyphenation by Dec. 15

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) hearing on a petition to separate the Oshkosh and Appleton air markets — leaving Air Wisconsin as the lone recognized air carrier serving Appleton, was closed Thursday afternoon at the end of its eighth day.

The CAB examiner's decision on the petition of the five-year-old case will come by Dec. 15.

That was the estimate Thursday afternoon by the examiner, Joseph Fitzmaurice, after legal counsel for the parties involved agreed on deadlines for their filing written briefs with Fitzmaurice.

Businessmen Testify

The case actually involves three separate petitions — by Appleton-Oshkosh County, Sheboygan and Wisconsin Rapids-Marshfield. All want to be removed officially from North Central Airlines' certificated air route because they aren't served directly by North Central and have commuter airlines serving them in their own airports.

In Appleton's case, North Central is recognized by the CAB as serving Appleton, Appleton, Manitowoc-Sheboygan and Mosinee-Wausau-Stevens through the Oshkosh airport.

Testimony during the eight full days of hearings alleged that particularly Fox Cities businessmen have suffered by the first city in each designation. The North Central designation because their freight as well as their outlying employees and customers or suppliers have mistakenly flown North Central, thinking it would take them directly to Appleton.

North Central, Oshkosh-Wisconsin County and representatives of Manitowoc and Green Bay-Brown County have opposed the dehyphenation for various reasons but primarily because they believe that it will have a detrimental effect on North Central and the communities served.

The CAB has authorized North Central to serve Oshkosh-Appleton, also will be removed. Presumably, hearings in the Official Airline Guide and other publications selling passengers or freight reservations clerks.

Change Publications

Presumably, hearings in the Official Airline Guide and other publications selling passengers or freight reservations clerks.

However, some of those publications are produced by a private corporation which doesn't have to alter the listing.

The examiner's decision is final, unless the losing parties appeal it to the CAB in Washington, D. C. And the CAB decision also could be appealed to the courts.

The first federal-level position on the issue will come from Alexander Argerakis, senior trial attorney for the CAB operating rights bureau. Argerakis, who was one of the attorneys participating in the hearing, will submit a statement of position Sept. 22 to the examiner as his recommendation on the case.

The bureau's main concern is that air travel in general be maintained for the most convenience for the public.

Testimony ended Thursday afternoon with the cross-examination of Preston Wilbourne, vice president and general manager of Air Wisconsin.

Freight Problem

Wilbourne said the freight problem was the worst "problem" under current conditions. He urged the CAB to eliminate the hyphenated listing, indicating he believed that would help resolve the confusion and inconvenience caused Appleton-bound passengers and cargo.

He said that generally only the first-visit passengers were confused by the joint listing and that after they found out about Air Wisconsin, they often flew back with it.

Wilbourne, who has managed Air Wisconsin since its inception in 1965, made a plea for computers to be given a fair chance to be involved fully in the national air transportation picture. He testified that they were not given this chance.

For example, he said, without the hyphen, major airlines would be less reluctant to enter into joint fare arrangements because they wouldn't feel that they were stepping into North Central's territory. Joint fare arrangements, which Air Wisconsin has been entering into lately, allow for a reduced fare for connecting trips using the two airlines in the pact.

Motorcycle Races Top Event It's Waupaca Fair Time

WEYAUWEGA — The century-old Waupaca County Fair will open its gates here Thursday, with a somewhat different format from previous years.

Almost since its inception 90 years ago, harness racing has been a highlight of the festivities. The popularity of the racing program led to larger fairgrounds, successfully larger grandstands, more horse barns, and what is considered one of the finest half-mile tracks.

In recent years harness races have failed to fill the grandstand and fair officials have looked to the special interests of youths to remedy the situation.

Two reasons have been cited for the poor attendance. First, the local grandstand has no cover and patrons get too warm on a hot sunny day.

Secondly, smaller purses offered in Wisconsin fail to attract the best horses, and legalized betting in bordering states produces higher stakes and more entries.

Horses Replaced

The horses will be replaced Sunday afternoon by motorcycle races conducted by the Badger Racing Association. A sampling of fairgoers, of a wide age range, showed that while many were not in favor of the motorcycle races, they were attracted to the motorcycle races.

The fair will be in sight its goal of attracting to the small cities and rural communities of the county while many county fairs have turned to other forms of entertainment as a means of attracting city dwellers.

The local association has made concessions to the interests of the area, not only by adding the motorcycle races but also by scheduling two evenings of the popular "Lucky O'Hara" Demolition Derby. There will be two complete shows on both Saturday and Sunday evenings. The derby will be limited to 40 cars each evening.

The youth-oriented grandstand shows do not mean the fair has lost its rural flavor. The tractor pulling contest, now open to five classes, is scheduled for Friday evening. Horses will be back Saturday afternoon, but not for racing. This year they will be competing in a pulling contest.

Young and old alike will enjoy the variety of exhibits, the changing midway with a greater assortment of rides and booths, and the enlarged machinery row.

PSC Hearing at Kiel Toll Free Phone Service Debated

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

KIEL — Toll free telephone service between Kiel, Elkhart Lake, Chilton and New Holstein was termed more or less a luxury in testimony here this week by D. W. Bussse, revenues and regulatory relations manager for General Telephone Co. of Wisconsin.

Bussse delivered a six-page dissertation on why he felt there was no need for such service at a Public Service Commission hearing.

The hearing was called on a request petition by the Kiel Association of Commerce for such extended toll free service.

Charles H. Vogel, Kiel, a member of the Association of Commerce, testified in favor of the service, noting that there was a community interest with neighboring businesses in New Holstein, Elkhart Lake, Chilton and Kiel. He referred to a survey taken by the Junior Jaycees and Women's Club of Kiel. The survey showed that of the 1,689 persons called in the Kiel area, 994 favored the service with a slight increase in rates; 502 did not favor it because they believed rates would increase too much when they felt there should be no increase at all; 101 were undecided; and 92 could not be reached.

Unfair

Vogel, who also referred to a survey chart of telephone rates and the users it reached in a total free area, said he believed Kiel paid just about 30 cents less than most of the other communities involved and could reach fewer people toll free. He said the set up was unfair for Kiel customers.

He added that Kiel reaches an area of about 3,324 subscribers compared to New Holstein and Chilton which reach about 5,500.

Vogel added that Kiel's area extends into three counties and that residents of that city must call sheriff protection from either Chilton or Manitowoc and hospital services from Chilton, all of which necessitate toll calls. He said one of the grade school systems is in an area wooden bridge at S. Division Street is obviously in poor condition, as it is full of dry rot, sagging, wiggly, with the wooden railings weak and in need of paint, a spokesman said.

Ald. Vernon Johnson (5th), board of public works chairman, told the City Council this week that the board plans to put a deck span of pre-cast, prestressed concrete, four inches thick and five feet wide over the river. The old wooden rails would be replaced with steel posts and galvanized pipe.

Cost of the deck span would be $2,500 installed and city crew end of the bridge and the street to permit installing a ramp, but for the railing might add up to another $1,000. The board is requesting the city to take out the old bridge, which would entail taking off the boards and removing the metal bars which support the 120-foot foot bridge," Walter Hein, public works director, reported.

"The supporting piers at each end will have to be repaired. I hope we can get at it as soon as possible."

Several have suggested that a ramp replace the stair steps on the southwest end of bridge so wheel chairs and infant strollers could have easy access to the bridge.

Hein said he doubted it there would be space enough between the end of the bridge and the street to permit installing a ramp, but he will study the possibility.

Replacement of the Aging footbridge across the Waupaca River is being considered by the Waupaca Board of Public Works. Proposed plans call for a pre-cast, prestressed concrete deck with metal safety rails. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Chilton Slates In-Service For Teachers

Instructors in Public Schools to Report for Sessions Next Week

CHILTON — Teachers in the public schools here will report for in-service training sessions next week Wednesday through Friday at the high school.

Consultants from the state Department of Public Instruction will conduct discussions on individualized instruction on Wednesday. A joint school board-teacher meeting, staff orientation sessions, the fall session of the Chilton Education Association and new teacher orientation programs will occupy the remainder of the first day.

Teachers of kindergarten through sixth grade will participate in a seminar on nutrition Thursday and Friday. They also will meet with representatives of the Calumet County Public Health Center and Department of Social Services and tour the New Hope Center.

Seventh and eighth grade teachers will attend a self-monitoring workshop on Thursday and Friday at Sheboygan Falls.

High school teachers have planned their own training sessions according to departments for those two days.

Gas Prices

The possibility of setting a uniform gas-line price from local suppliers also was discussed. It has been the district's policy to purchase gasoline at all district stations but there is about a seven-cent difference between the high and low prices paid. Because of taxpayer complaints, the board felt more uniformity was needed.

Standard Oil received the contract for fuel oil and Brillion Dairy the contract for milk. The board agreed to charge $4.99 a year tuition for an out-of-district freshman student, who other car involved sustained a bump to the top of the head.

City to Join Calumet In Housing Request

Despite determined opposition the Calumet portion of Appleton's south side. Ralph West (20th), the City Council agreed to cooperate with the Calumet County Housing Authority to seek a federal low-income housing project in a the agreement, after he referred the measure back to the committee.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th), one of two aldermen whose ward would be affected by the housing program, said Calumet officials had set a Sept. 1 deadline for communities to agree to participate, and waiting for the next regular committee meeting would in effect kill Appleton's participation.

West objected that the resolution authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign a cooperation agreement with Calumet, and he said the agreement contained numerous provisions he didn't understand.

Fully Studied
He persisted in the face of repeated assurances from several other aldermen and City Atty. David Geenen that the subject had been fully studied and that the agreement contained adequate safeguards.

After West referred the resolution back to the welfare and ordinance committee, the council recessed while the committee reaffirmed its approval. The resolution was adopted on a 19-1 vote, with West alone opposed.

Then he forced a second vote on the issue when the committee report recommending adoption of the resolution came before the council. The outcome, after debate replete with the first, was also 19-1.

In business, the council—Without debate granted beer licenses to the St. Theresa Catholic Church Men's Club for Aug. 26 and Sept. 23 despite recent discovery that plans to play bingo at the events violate a city ordinance banning "games of chance" on premises holding beer or liquor licenses.

Adopted on a voice vote with Ald. Bruce Stutzman (1st) casting the only audible "no," resolution by Ald. Edward Maloney (9th) opposing Fox City Transit, Inc. in its petition for Public Service Commission permission to abandon city bus service Sept. 1. The PSC has set a hearing on the petition for Sept. 6 at the Outagamie County Courthouse.

Was prevented by Mayor James Sutherland from voting on a resolution supporting formation of the new East-Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission for 10 area counties. Sutherland ruled Maloney's proposal to adopt the measure out of order since it violated the council rule requiring prior consideration by a committee.

Sutherland has opposed forming the commission without additional guarantees of membership by municipal officials on the commission, but Maloney pointed out that enough other communities have adopted supporting resolutions to form the commission anyway.

Maloney suggested that Appleton's support would be merely a positive gesture. Sutherland replied, "If we're opposed to it, we're opposed to it."

If Appleton fails to be chosen as the site of the new agency's headquarters, Maloney said, pointing to the mayor's statement, "You're the one that did that to Appleton."

Heat Plagues State Fair

MILWAUKEE AP — The livestock shows and the championship auto race were successes at the Wisconsin State Fair Thursday, but hot, humid weather appeared to have put a damper on the fair's annual goal of a million total attendance. Thursday's count was 66,247, compared with 85,555 for the same date last year. That was due to the first seven days of the fair season at 90-100 degrees.

Rains had cut into attendance earlier in the week. Thursday's villain was heat—91 degrees, plus the grand champion female and reserve grand champion bull. Reserve grand champion cow was entered by Barbara and Chester Williams, Waukesha, while Elderwood Farm of Eagle Lake had the first and grand champion bull.

Waukesha won a county herd championship, with the Northeastern Wisconsin district second.

Top winners were split by the Brown Swiss showmen, with Vogelz Farm, Inc., Mosheim, named premier breeder and Red Brae Farm, Eagle, premier exhibitor.

Champion Bull
Norvie Farms of Lake Mills showed the senior and grand champion bull and champion junior female. Red Brae entered the reserve grand champion bull and junior champion bull.

Phone Service . . .

Continued from page 1. . . outside of Kiel and toll calls must be paid for in that case also.

Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, spoke in favor of the service, noting community interest of business dealings with merchants in the three-town area, which is about 30 to 40 miles in radius. He said rural development stems from and can develop because of telephone service.

Immediate Need
He noted professional business and split of school districts in the area as an immediate need for such service. As an example, he cited a child who must travel because of illness.

He said that the child is let out early in the Kiel exchange for the health of the child. The child or parent must make a long distance phone call to be sure the youngster is picked up or someone is home when he gets there, he said.

Ald. Ed. Hephner and this amount, $5,934 will be for the telephone service. The annual carrying charges on service to a distance of 20 miles will be $23,342 and the loss of annual revenue would amount to $14,900. In addition, he said, a telephone building addition would be required.

He compared the cost of $845 for a private line which reaches 4,541 homes in Milwaukee private line of $9.05 which reaches 474,581 homes. He said General Telephone's rate of return estimated by Public Service Commission and the remaining $79,187 for a 7.06 per cent and Wisconsin Telephone's is 8.19 per cent. He referred to many of the cables being buried, which would cut the cost of maintenance and result in a decrease in rates.

Also speaking in favor of the free service were representatives from the Chilton County Civic Association, New Britain Town Board, Kiel businessmen and housewives.

Special Line
Patricia J. Smith, public relations director for Calumet Memorial Hospital in Chilton, called the hospital and the hospital to get in touch with them. However, he said many patients from the Kiel area must make toll calls to their homes, resulting in increased charges to them which could more or less be returned to the patient.

Basse, in his rebuttal against the extended service, said toll free telephone service is a misnomer. Telephone service is associated costs whether paid for on a message basis, time and usage basis or by a group of rate payers as part of their basic monthly exchange rates.

"Historically, extended area service increases calling volumes since there is no restriction on use and thereby encourages unnecessary and wasteful use of telephone equipment and facilities," he said.

Increasing all volumes requires additional expense and plant investment when results in an increased rate base requiring additional return from increased local service charges. In short, he said, forced expansion of unlimited service tends to create unnecessary costs.

Wade as a public utility, the value of service is greater for every subscriber within the service area of a charge is enlarged, he said. "It must be recognized that wide ranging extended area service may be a very expensive luxury to many who have little need for such service. The commission would be remiss in its obligation to the public if it did not attempt to control expenses which enables a few to benefit at the expense of others."

813 Main Stations
If extended area service is ordered by the commission as a result of this proceeding, Basse said, the Kiel local calling area would be extended to 813 main stations at Elkhart Lake and 2,027 at Chilton. The Kiel local calling area would be extended to 5,981 main stations, quality of service would be improved and application of various rates in special areas.

Basse added that the estimated capital expenditures to provide Kiel-Chilton extended area service would be $65,091. Of this amount, $5,934 will be for outside plant facilities and $79,187 would be for central office equipment. The annual carrying charges on service to a distance of 20 miles will be $23,342 and the loss of annual revenue would amount to $14,900. In addition, he said, a telephone building addition would be required.

Basse would result to the company and must be borne by the local service users. For this reason, the company is opposed to this service," Basse said.

Hephner asked Basse to change his mind because of the toll free service. Basse said Hephner reminded Basse that recently the rates went up 55 cents and would go up more with this service extended. Basse said that the last increase was only part of an increase asked for earlier in the year.

Hephner said the acquisition program of the telephone company is another reason for increased rates. The Public Service Commission will act on the basis of need and testimony taken.

The result is that this year the department of natural sources has succeeded in writing a new fall hunting order without a hint of resistance or complaint. Concurrently, it is able to forecast a harvest of about 75,000 of the state's most valuable big game animals this year, and an annual average crop between 75,000 and 100,000 legal trophies produced by a herd planned to be of a stable size of about 500,000 indefinitely.

Thus, there was good cause for the President's veto and for a one-year appropriation now to allow time to work out some firm rules on the relationship between local stations and the federal PBS. The end result should be an emphasis and the most money for locally and state produced educational programs and for cultural programs which commercial television has made clear it does not accept as its responsibility to the public.

McGovern Rejects Democratic Liberal Foreign Policy of Past

Seen as an Isolationist
However, there is another line of assault, one with which I associate myself, that sees in Sen. McGovern the repudiation of the liberal tradition of the past quarter of a century. We don't consider McGovern a "radical," but rather as an advocate of an ancient regime, a throwback to the liberal isolationists of the 1930s. The "Come Home, America!" theme, for example, would have warmed the heart of the late Charles A. Beard, the Columbia historian. We do not disapprove of McGovern's domestic program (to the extent that one can make sense of it)—it is roughly as "radical" as the Socialist Program I helped draft in 1949. Indeed, I would go well beyond McGovern in certain areas. For example, I would have voted for the two gun control measures that he recently opposed in the Senate.

Marshall Plan Recalled

McGovernism then has become more than a program for the future. It is also an attack on the past, one which incorporates all the fantasies about the origins of the Cold War that have been circulating. The United States is not only wrong in Southeast Asia, but it has been wrong for 25 years. In 1945-46 Stalin was standing around waiting

Three Democratic mayors said McGovern hasn't demonstrated concern with the everyday problems of urban governments. No doubt they're worried that he insists on pine trees in the background when he has his pictures taken.

Your Surname Came From an Occupation

Hattie

What is particularly interesting about this book is the realization of how many thousands of names of common occupations — and many of these occupations are obsolete in modern times — that we have forgotten their original derivation — if any.

Surnames, of course, are recent in history. In the year 1066, 900 years ago, a priest that people began to use surnames. Until the 14th century, there was no fixed population in England and almost every one lived in a small village where he was known by sight. At the time of the Norman Conquest in 1066, the London itself had only 60 inhabitants.

The reason that "Smith" might be the most common name in the English different kinds of smith medieval times. This gr

cluded not only men w made horseshoes, but a makers, snear makers, blacksmiths, anchor makers, sword makers, spear and lance makers, weaver makers, arm makers, shield makers, caltrop makers.

A "caltrop" was a curved piece of iron with razor-sharp edges, scattered on the path one way or the other were expected to be on.)

Among the Smith family we find Farrar, Bellow, Marshall, Lowmyer, Collier, Steel, Branner, Nayler, Sherman, Locke, Cutler, Brand, Pickman, Telfer, Clubb, Armour, Shield, Helm, Greaves, and all their many variations. (The same name was often spelled in six different ways in those times, and up until Shakespeare's day — who himself wrote his signature with several different spellings.)

What is most fascinating to me about the book is the large number of occupational names that hardly anyone today recognizes as deriving from a trade or occupation. Like "Lorment," a maker of snouts; "Laser," a washer of wool; "Kolegall," a killer of bees; "Turner," a woodworker; "Chapman," a piddler; "Passavant," a messenger; "Tha'keray," a barber; and all the Lornais names of "Priest" — Bow, Chak, Clay, Creek, Cudd, Dish, Jarman, Mugg, Pitcher, Steiner, and their variants.

An enormous number of English surnames originated in the customs and manner of life of medieval times when hundreds of different kinds of servants would keep these tall enterprises going. Such familiar names as Gordon, Proctor, Stewart, Worth, Bridgman, Porter, Gilchrist, a special cook who made the sauce, and Payer who cleared the grounds against poachers.

If you have an English surname it's almost certain to be found here. And you might be surprised at what your forefathers did for a living.

GM Agrees to Cut Back on Price Increase

DETROIT (AP) — General material and tax costs to add Motors Corp. has become the an average of $200 to its costs first automaker to bow to White House pressure and decrease a price-hike request for 1973 models now pending before the Price Commission.

GM announced Thursday it would roll back its original request for an increase by $31, from an average of $90 a car to an average of $59 per car.

Earlier, both Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. said they would not decrease their requests for an added $110 and $150 respectively.

Ford Motor Co. said Thursday it had asked for more time to study a request by Director Donald Rumsfeld of the Cost of Living Council, that automakers withdraw their requests for price hikes on 1973 models.

Rumsfeld, who had requested a response by 5 p.m. Thursday, granted the delay, Ford said. The company has an original price hike request of $92 before the Price Commission.

Government Orders
GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg wrote Rumsfeld that the company now proposes to boost prices by only the amount of added manufacturing costs "related entirely to government mandated changes in emissions, bumpers and other safety equipment."

There was no immediate comment from federal officials. Gerstenberg said the $39 increase would not mean additional profits for GM or its dealers. All domestic automakers have reported for the first half of 1972 running far ahead of 1971.

GM normally both manufactures more than half the cars made in the United States and also sets the price pattern, the others peeling back whenever GM announces a smaller increase in new model prices than they do.

Door Open
As in its original announcement of a boost for 1973 models, GM left the door open to come back Jan. 1 for a further increase, saying it expects a added government-required equipment and increased labor.

"In addition to... significant monetary considerations there is a serious principal involved in your request that General Motors withdraw its requested price increase..." Gerstenberg wrote Rumsfeld.

"We believe the workings of our economy are endangered when one agency of government can establish standards that a manufacturer's product must meet, and another agency should seek to prevent the same manufacturer from having at least an opportunity to recover the costs of such mandated equipment in the marketplace under competitive conditions."

"We wish to point out... that in proposing this minimum price increase we believe General Motors has the right to expect our suppliers and the unions representing our employees to exercise a similar course of restraint in their price policies and wage demands."

DNR Rejects Development Bid By Isaacson

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Thursday denied a request by Reedsburg developer N. E. Isaacson to form a third recreational lake on Fourteen Mile Creek in Adams County.

A DNR spokesman said the request was rejected for several reasons, but that he could not elaborate. However, a spokesman for Isaacson indicated the matter will be pursued further.

Environmental groups have claimed the project would ruin a 280-acre tract described as a "haven for rare plants" and nesting spot for eagles.

The area is about 15 miles south of Wisconsin Rapids, west of Wisconsin 13 and downstream from two other Isaacson recreational projects.

Spassky, Fischer Draw 15th Game

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The 15th game of the world chess championship between Bobby Fischer and champion Boris Spassky ended in a draw today, less than 30 seconds after it resumed. The two had played through 40 moves Thursday.

This gives Fischer nine points in the match and Spassky six. The American challenger thus needs 3½ points to win the championship, the Russian 6 to keep his title. A victory counts a full point, draw half a point.

Spassky, playing with the first-move white pieces, was in check on adjournment Thursday.

His sealed 41st move, opened Friday, edged him to safety. Fischer again checked, Spassky again edged out, and Fischer repeated his check.

Grandmaster Isaac Kashdan, analyzing the 24-game match for The Associated Press, said when the 15th game was adjourned after 40 moves that it seemed "likely to result in a draw."

Yugoslav Grandmaster Svetozar Gligoric commented: "Fischer has a draw whenever he relative safety. Spassky captured his knight and Fischer deliberated 25 minutes, then took Spassky's bishop."

In the final series of moves, Spassky's king was threatened constantly. Spassky made his 40th move with less than five minutes left on his clock. Each player has found an answer in the 11th 2½ hours for his first 40 moves and an hour for every 16 moves after that.

Grand Jury Probe Asked on Milwaukee Board Chairman

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — comment on Warren's recommendation until he had read it, are in order..."

Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren has recommended a grand jury be called to investigate allegations surrounding Richard C. Nowakowski, Milwaukee County board chairman.

In a letter to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, Warren said State Justice Department agents have for four months "been actively engaged in the investigation of alleged misconduct on the part of public officials in Milwaukee County and elsewhere."

"The investigative file reflects sufficient facts to indicate the probability that illegal activity has occurred, that this activity is statewide in nature, importance and influence, and that said activity is inter-county in nature," Warren said.

Lucey earlier Thursday had directed Warren and E. Michael McCann, Milwaukee County district attorney, to investigate Nowakowski and recommend what official action should be taken.

"If they indicate that a grand jury inquiry is dictated by the evidence, my office will take whatever steps are necessary," the governor said.

Warren replied it was "essential that this department be authorized to conduct a grand jury investigation as a logical and necessary extension of your 'Lucey's directive sent to me this date'."

McCann said he was proceeding with the investigation at full speed, and will subsequently asked Lucey to port to the governor as he ordered an investigation to be completed within seven days with clear the air.

Relaxed Laws Haven't Changed Divorce Rate

The Post-Crescent A 7
Friday, August 18, 1972

Courts

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Al now to getting a divorce is the though Wisconsin's divorce expense," said attorney Jack Van Metre, who advocates simplifying the procedures so far that hiring a lawyer would no longer be necessary.

Many Madison lawyers, in fact, said that until Wisconsin adopts a "no-fault" divorce law, its statutes will remain unmolested.

"I think we should get rid of the concept of fault," Norman C. Anderson, an attorney and speaker of the state Assembly, said.

"It's bad public policy to require one party to get up and say the breakup of the marriage can be blamed entirely on him," Anderson said. "Besides, serving no useful purpose, the law actually encourages perjury in divorce actions."

"Why Force Them?" "If people don't want to live together, then why must we force them to?" asked attorney Fred Rikkers. He termed existing law "definitely archaic."

Attorney Tom Eckerle said the law means that one marriage partner must file a complaint against the other before a divorce action can begin. Joint action is not permitted, he said.

Kenneth Lamb, 18, 116 1/2 S. Walnut St., was charged with disorderly conduct relating to an early Monday incident when he appeared later in the day before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Police were summoned to the 400 block of W. College Ave. about 3:30 a.m. after they received a complaint about a person making a disturbance outside a bar. When the police approached the defendant for questioning, he fled on foot, and was apprehended a short time later near his residence.

conciliation because couples won't be afraid to try it. They will know if the effort fails they can still proceed with the original divorce plans," he said.

Another change allows judges to order women to pay alimony to former husbands.

What are the chances of the legislature enacting no-fault divorce?

"Very, very unlikely," Anderson said. "Personally, I just don't feel most lawmakers would support such a wide-ranging change, and because we supposedly modernized our statutes last year, it's a low priority item."

Outagamie Divorce Rate Lower Than Average

Outagamie County has a low divorce rate and high rates of divorce action reconciliations and collections of support payments, according to John Ensley, the county's family court commissioner.

Ensley made the observations Thursday afternoon at the county board's Judiciary and Enforcement committee meeting, where he added that "assignment of wages is the solution to the problem of support payment arrearages."

Welfare Director James E. Stamp had told the Board of Social Services on Wednesday that the total arrearage in support payments stood at $392,000 as of June 30, although Ensley said the figure is probably higher than that.

Ensley said the local courts should take a realistic approach to the arrearages, writing off those termed uncollectable.

Lost Cause

Ensley said any arrearage over $5,000 is usually a lost cause, and many of these large arrearages date well back into the 1960s.

As for the collections, Ensley said Outagamie County has an excellent record of getting payments. A total of $966,761 was collected in 1971 for support payments, and the 1972 figure presently stands at $709,628.

Ensley added that the divorce rate has been quite low in the county, as well as the state. Over the past five years, the rate has been 1.4 divorces per 1,000 citizens in the county, and about 2.0 for the state. This compares with a rating of 0.5 in 1910 for the state. Ensley expects the divorce rate to rise, however.

He cited increased mobility and changing mores in society as a whole for causing the national rise in divorces. He pointed out that California has a much higher divorce rate than Wisconsin, and suggested that the higher rates will soon take effect in Wisconsin.

As for the rate of reconciliations in county divorce matters, Ensley said the figures are encouraging. From 1968 through 1971, the numbers of divorce actions filed in the county increased from 230 to 310, while the number of divorces granted in the corresponding years went from 142 to 213.

So far in 1972, 238 divorce actions have been filed with 138 divorces granted. 100 cases have been reconciled, Ensley said. A large share of the reconciliations come out of his department.

Ensley said the typical divorce action handled by his office involves a couple with two or three children, where the couple has been married less than five years, and the husband has a take-home pay of about $100 a week. Most of these families have financial problems which lead to the divorces.

Small Contested

Only a small fraction of divorce actions, about one in 30, is contested when the parties get into court.

Ensley said the toughest category of divorce cases to reconcile is where the husband is earning between $60 and $70 a week and where there are four or more children.

In such a case, when the couple becomes separated, the wife usually ends up on welfare where she often finds she can manage better.

Ensley said that the overall record of payments by divorced husbands is better in Outagamie County than in other areas of similar size in Wisconsin.

"Pay Like Clockwork"

"I would say that about 80 percent of the men pay like clockwork," he added.

On the matter of wage assignments, Ensley said he has the authority to order them on a temporary basis if there is evidence of default on the husband's part.

Although he did not have the

Teacher Contract Terms Unsettled

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Teacher contracts have yet to be signed in some 120 school districts in Wisconsin, with more than 11,000 teachers and 250,000 children involved, the Wisconsin Education Association said today.

Fruzen said most schools are scheduled to begin classes in one or two weeks. The major issues still to be resolved in the bargaining, he said, are im-

Nixon Indicates Quiet Support for Conservative Delegation Formula

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
MIAMI BEACH — The shrouded attempt by the Nixon White House to shape the Republican course in the post-Nixon years was exposed Monday.

particulars Herbert Klein, the week, the party's old ideological animosities surfaced for the first time since 1963. Nixon administration's propaganda chief. Thus, Kemp's sudden intervention was a signal from the White House that it favors the conservative delegation formula, but does not yet openly support it.

Preoccupation here over 1976 seems from heavy Republican confidence regarding 1972 and Agnew's probable bid for the presidential succession. It was first thought the struggle here would center on McGovern-style delegate reforms attempting to pack the 1976 convention with anti-Agnew blacks and youths.

When it became clear Republican would never swallow a McGovernite quota system, the focus turned to the new delegate allocation formula for 1976 required by Federal court order. A formula devised by party leaders from New York, Michigan, Minnesota and Rhode Island would make the 1976 convention larger and more liberal than any in the party's history.

Accordingly, Agnew's lieutenant were deeply involved in preparing, as an alternative, the Tower-Kemp plan. But the fight transcends Agnew. One conservative state chairman vigorously pushing the Tower-Kemp formula told us he does not consider Agnew electable in 1976 and would prefer somebody else. Nevertheless, he bitterly opposes any leftward shift in the power balance.

That is not far from private views by Nixon campaign advisers. They fear any delegate formula leading to nomination of a liberal who could provoke a disastrous third-party bid by conservative Republicans. At this writing, Nixon campaign aide Harry Flemming is only a very sympathetic observer. But Nixon might yet decisively and openly endorse the Tower-Kemp formula.

Barring such intervention, the battle over the party's future will go to the convention floor. Without such intervention this

When the English playwright, Francis Beaumont, penned the following words I cannot help but suspect that he may have had some farsighted views about bridge players and overtricks.

The true way to gain much is never to desire to gain too much. He is not rich that possesses much, but he that covets no more, and he is not poor that enjoys little, but he that wants too much.

Today's tempting game hand sets Beaumont's words to music.

South properly opened one no trump rather than one club or one of the other proper openings. North used the Stayman Convention to check on the possibility of a spade contract but when South denied a spade suit, North jumped to the no-trump game. North's wealth of intermediate cards compensated for his lack of the required 10 high-card points.

West led his fourth-best spade and declarer, looking for much to gain, saw little reason not to play low. West may well have led from the king and, if not, the heart position was fairly well secured.
